MONEY CAN'T BUY YOU LOVE

Upcoming book discusses balancing money with spirituality

The Beatles made the song famous with playful lyrics, but Karen Russo is serious about its message in her upcoming book The Money Key: Unlocking Peace, Freedom and Real Financial Powers.

Russo has an MBA from Columbia University and for twenty years has worked in the corporate world of finance, marketing and consulting. She is all too familiar with the popular phrase 'money can't buy happiness' and in 2004 obtained her Master's degree in Consciousness Studies. She is now an ordained minister for the United Centers of Spiritual Living.

In her upcoming book The Money Keys, Russo writes about how to discover peace of mind regardless of your financial circumstances, ways to ensure that your investments and business deals are really win-win, and how to create a prosperous romantic partnership that successfully combines love and money. Topics include Escaping the Money Traps, Your Money Map and Get into the Flow of Giving & Receiving.

The Money Keys provides education, inspiring examples, and practical tools for applying universal spiritual principles to your money and the meaning it has in your life. According to Russo, it can be done. "We can simultaneously grow ourselves while we grow our wealth."

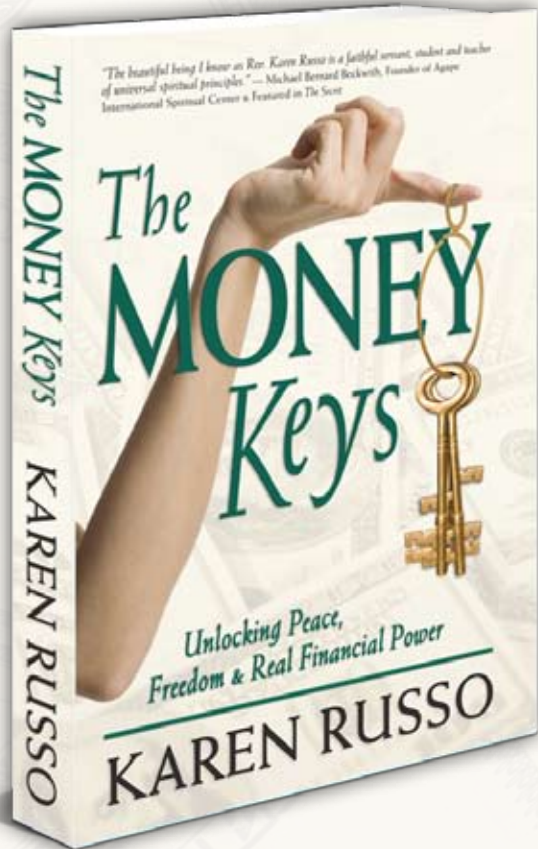

Russo's book is scheduled to be released November 1, 2007.
